Nov 11th

The Earl and Countess of Gainsborough and suite arrived at the Bell Inn, Leicester, on Monday night last, and on Tuesday morning proceeded to Exton Park. Upon entering his estate about 4 miles south of Melton, his Lordship was met by a number of his tenantry and others from the adjacent villages of Pickwell, Whissendine, &c., And before they reach Langham they were joined by a great concourse of horse and foot (headed by a band of music), all anxious to testify their respect to the Noble Earl and Countess on the restoration of their family titles. At the schoolhouse, they were received by a deputation; and after they had alighted and examined the school and the children assembled, William Sharrad, Esq. Addressed the Noble Earl in a very impressive manner, to the following effect: –

“We, the inhabitants of Langham, and others intimately connected with its welfare, beg leave to approach your lordship with feelings of gratitude that our beloved Sovereign Queen Victoria has in her wisdom and love of justice restored the ancient titles of Gainsborough to your family. We, therefore, most respectfully approach, and address you as the Right Honourable Charles Noel, Earl of Gainsborough, Viscount Campden, and Baron of Ridlington, and sincerely congratulate your lordship upon that event, which has afforded so much satisfaction to the inhabitants of the County of Rutland. We especially wish to embrace the present opportunity of offering our heartfelt thanks for your great liberality and consideration in erecting this handsome and useful... schoolhouse; and, in furtherance of its object, that your amiable and highly esteemed Countess has made those arrangements for the education of youth in this and other parishes which will serve the cause of morality, virtue, and religion. We trust that we are not taking too great a liberty in offering to your accomplished daughters our congratulations upon their acquisition of new titles. Permit us likewise to felicitate your lordship and family upon the marriage of your son, the Viscount Campden. In conclusion we pray that her Most Gracious Majesty may long continue to uphold her exalted character, and reign as she now does in the hearts of her loyal subjects; and may the recorded virtues of the House of Gainsborough in former days be fully borne out by your lordship, its present representative, and also by your successes. May your generous and kind-hearted Countess continue to exercise those well directed acts of goodness and benevolence so universally acknowledged and duly appreciated. And may the Ladies Noel, now present, participate in those Christian feelings, as well as the absent branches of your family. In the names of the ladies and gentlemen assembled, and of those who from peculiar circumstances are unable to attend, we offer to your Lordship and Countess our unbound thanks for years the opportunity of expressing our sense of your continued kindness to the inhabitants of Langham and the County of Rutland."

The Earl of Gainsborough replied in a very excellent speech, touching upon the several points of the address, assuring the assemblage that he had sincere gratification in offering his assistance and support to every institution in the County having for its object public good; and in reference more particularly to the building of this school, in which the Countess of Gainsborough had taken so much interest, he could add that he desired most cordially that it should be found to answer the expectation of its sanguine friends. The party then proceeded to Oakham, joined by hundreds of fresh pedestrians and equestrians.

On reaching the agricultural Hall, at the request of its officers the Earl and Countess alighted; and the great room being crowded almost to suffocation, Mr George Smith, on behalf of the members of the Society (of which is Lordship's president), and on behalf of the town of Oakham, felicitated the Noble Earl on the honours which had reverted to himself and his progeny, in the following words: –

“My Lord, – As one of the officers connected with this building, I am requested by this assembled party to express their sincere pleasure at seeing you and your amiable family again among them, and to express their sincere gratification that the ancient titles of your house should have descended upon the head of one in every way so worthy to receive them. The return of a nobleman like yourself to this our little County, is at all times a gratifying event; but when he comes, like yourself loaded by his Sovereign with well-deserved honours, it enhances, if possible, the high respect and esteem in which your lordship is held, and adds to the many reasons we have for that esteem it would be presumptuous in me, my lord, to attempt to a numerate those reasons; but allow me to say that I hope the building just passed at Langham will stand for a long course of years as a proud monument of your Lordship's usefulness and liberality, and that ages yet unborn will have to bless you for the greatest all advantages, the means of learning the right way in which to steer through life. And again, my lord this very building in which I have the honour to address you has being greatly assisted by your fostering aid; and your Noble countess has condescended to work for hours in this very room to raise an edifice to be devoted to the use and benefit of Agriculture.

In fact, my lord I believe there is not a public institution in this county but what receives your benevolent and kind support. Then, if we pass from walls to Earth, and I am rightly informed, there is not a village on your lordship's estate but what has a portion of garden allotted to comfort and assist the poor and meritorious labourer. We are quite aware and actions like these bring their own reward, – far, very far superior to our humble but sincere praises, and transcending even the titles and honours we this day so cordially congratulate you upon receiving; but before I sit down, allow me to express one's sincere and core dual wish, in which, I am sure, everyone who hears me will join – that your lordship and amiable Countess, and your family, they very long continue to reside amongst others in the full possession of health and every other earthly blessing; and when it shall please God to deprive you of your temporal coronet, may give you 'Crown eternal in the heaven’s.”
The Earl of Gainsborough, much affected by this address, assured the numerous assembly that it was his sincere wish, and that of his family, to merit the titles of nobility by a right application of the means of usefulness which Providence had placed in their hands to dispense.

Upon quitting the hall, the party received fresh reinforcements, and proceeded to Barnsdale Hill: here they were joined by others, so that by the time they reach the new entrance lodges many hundreds of horsemen lined the road, through which the carriage passed, flanked by thousands of persons on foot, to all of whom the noble Earl and the beloved Countess, as well as the Lady Louisa Noel bowed most affably and gracefully.

Upon arriving at the gates, the company took their leave, and the noble party entered their Home Park amidst the hearty cheers and the sincere good wishes of the people of Rutland, who had assembled from almost all parts. At this moment the bells of Exton were ringing and the band playing, and the loud roar of Canon announce the arrival at the gate, where they were received by Mr Parsons and Mr Pilkington, the architects, and the leading persons of the extensive buildings which the noble Earl is executing, and then by the steward of their estates, and were escorted by Park keepers and others to the house.— the schoolhouse at Langham has been lately built at a cost of £1200.

To the Editor of the Mercury - Sir, – it was stated in your paper of the 25 January that “Lord Barham last week sent £10 to the poor of Langham, which was distributed in coals.” This account is partially incorrect. It is true that Lord Barham gave £10 to the poor of Langham, but only £7 was distributed in the above-mentioned way: the remaining £3., it appears from the statement of the parishioners, was kept back by the Curate and a certain lady (scarcely known beyond the limits of the village, though there celebrated for her ladylike attachment to parish business), and appropriated by them to a different object, viz. The providing of a dinner for the children of the National School. This would have excited little displeasure amongst the inhabitants of Langham, had it been given to all who attended the school: but the individuals who thought fit thus to expend the money (no doubt, from very disinterested motives), confined the treat exclusively to those who were scholars in the church Sunday school, and withheld it from others who were connected with the Dissenting Chapels in the village, but who nevertheless regularly attend at the National School.

Three little boys, after having been kept at their lessons until the dinner was placed on the table before them, were then sent home, being told by the humane and impartial persons who had the management, that they could not partake of the feast, because they did not go to church on the sabbath.

This conduct, we are assured was contrary to the intentions of the noble Lord, who is well-known liberality towards the Dissenters gives no countenance to such practices. I may just state, also, that the Baptist and the Wesleyan congregations in the village, incensed at this illiberality, united to give a dinner and tea to the children of their respective schools, on Wednesday.

Hoping that the exposure of this case will prevent its repetition, and that the time is not far distance when party feeling will not be permitted to violate the dictates of humanity and justice,

I am, Sir, your’s, &c.,

We are quite aware and actions like these bring their own reward, – far, very far superior to our humble but sincere praises, and transcending even the titles and honours we this day so cordially congratulate you upon receiving; but before I sit down, allow me to express one’s sincere and core dual wish, in which, I am sure, everyone who hears me will join – that your lordship and amiable Countess, and your family, they very long continue to reside amongst others in the full possession of health and every other earthly blessing; and when it shall please God to deprive you of your temporal coronet, may give you ‘Crown eternal in the heaven’s.”

The Earl of Gainsborough, much affected by this address, assured the numerous assembly that it was his sincere wish, and that of his family, to merit the titles of nobility by a right application of the means of usefulness which Providence had placed in their hands to dispense.

Upon quitting the hall, the party received fresh reinforcements, and proceeded to Barnsdale Hill: here they were joined by others, so that by the time they reach the new entrance lodges many hundreds of horsemen lined the road, through which the carriage passed, flanked by thousands of persons on foot, to all of whom the noble Earl and the beloved Countess, as well as the Lady Louisa Noel bowed most affably and gracefully.

Upon arriving at the gates, the company took their leave, and the noble party entered their Home Park amidst the hearty cheers and the sincere good wishes of the people of Rutland, who had assembled from almost all parts. At this moment the bells of Exton were ringing and the band playing, and the loud roar of Canon announce the arrival at the gate, where they were received by Mr Parsons and Mr Pilkington, the architects, and the leading persons of the extensive buildings which the noble Earl is executing, and then by the steward of their estates, and were escorted by Park keepers and others to the house.– the schoolhouse at Langham has been lately built at a cost of £1200.

Alarm respecting the banks

This part of England has experienced the climax of alarm and distress by the failure of a bank at Leicester - that of Messrs. Clark, Phillips, and Co. which is supposed to have out paper as the circulating medium in Leicestershire, Rutland, Northamptonshire, and part of Lincolnshire, to the amount of more than £150,000.

As early as Monday the 17th instant, there were unpleasant rumours respecting the conduct of the firm, who were stated to have made large and injudicious advances to some persons who had failed, particularly one person in Leicestershire, to an extraordinary amount. A slight run upon the bank commenced in consequence on Tuesday, and continued until Friday evening the 21st, when it was found that it was not likely to cease.

On Saturday morning, the following notification was placed in the window of the bank:- “Leicester and Leicestershire Bank - Messrs. Clarke, Mitchell, Phillips, and Smith regret to announce, that, inconsequence of a sudden pressure caused by malicious rumours which have been industriously circulated, it has become necessary that a temporary suspension of the business of the bank should take place. The public may rest satisfied, that no individual can sustain any loss, and that arrangements will be made for rendering the inconvenience resulting from the present step of as short duration as possible. Leicester, April 22, 1843”.

May 3rd 1843

The agitation which this event has produced in a wide circuit of country is extreme, and has of course brought on a run to some extent upon several other banks. “Clarke and Phillips,” it is well known, did more business than both the other Leicester banks put together. It was stated, on their first stopping payment, that they would reopen on Tuesday: then “Thursday or Saturday” was named. The delay, of course, has increased the panic, and all sorts of rumours are prevalent. “Clarke and Phillips” were Treasurers for nearly all sick clubs and benefit societies in the town and county of Leicester. The five pound notes have this week been sold at prices as low as 50s. Clarke and Phillips have branches at Lutterworth, Melton Mowbray, Uppingham, and Oakham. We regret to state, that the bank of Messrs. Goddard and Co. of market Harborough, stopped payment on Monday. - Stamford Mercury.

The Whit Monday railway excursion train from Oakham, Stamford etc to London was not very extensively patronised, probably owing to the unsettled state of the weather. Former grounds for complaint were not repeated and the passengers arrived in London in about six hours. In the return on Tuesday the managers of the railway showed a liberal and conciliating spirit; the day being stormy those passengers who had tickets for the open trucks were not compelled to travel in the exposed manner but were accommodated with covered third class carriages.
Jun 23rd 1848 Oakham – This town on Friday last was a day of general mourning in consequence of the funeral of Lady Lucy Eleanor Lowther. Oct 20th 1848 The superiority of Rutland ploughing has been demonstrated in Derbyshire the first prize at the recent Northmolton Agricultural Meeting having been awarded to Wm Bellairs, formerly of Langham, whose skill as a ploughman when a resident in his native county was frequently the subject of admiration at the Cottesmore meetings. Bellairs is in the employ of Mr Rt Smith of Exmoor Devon (formerly of Burley near Oakham) and he ploughed with an implement made by Mr Bird of Casterton. In the course of a speech made by Mr Smith at the Northmolton anniversary he said experience had taught him that the Rutland plough would be found highly useful in that part of the country.

Nov 3rd Warning to Threshers and Farm Servants. During the past week Mr Bellamy of Langham, Rutland, has sustained the severe loss of five young and valuable horses, from their having eaten of wheat out of a field-barn. That they should have access thereto may appear surprising; we therefore subjoin the man Berry’s account of his having unfastened a door which leads directly into the field where the horses were. He and his son had been threshing and were on the point of leaving for the night, when a rat ran out from behind some sheaves of wheat and escaped through the door; it was followed, and on their return, the man states, he fastened the door; immediately after which a second rat appeared, and ran in the same direction as the former, and this also was followed. The man does not recollect who was the last to re-enter the barn (egress being from the opposite side), but he says that he closed the door and inadvertently left it unbarred; and we may add that no circumstance has yet transpired which would justify us in doubting his statement, however much we may blame his negligence.

Feb 23rd
Langham – Joseph Cooper with one William Glen of Barleythorpe, entered the the Noel Arms Inn on Sunday night the 11th, and on being refused more drink, Cooper assaulted the landlord (Prideaux) and severely cut and bruised his head and one arm against the fire-grate; the medical attendant (Mr Dyer) pronounced him in danger for some days. Cooper was secured by the parish constable, who proceeded to hunt the immediate neighbourhood for a magistrate, but in vain; a wider cast was made, with cart and horse, chief constable of police etc. (a county expense!) and by night the ruffian was lodged in Oakham gaol: on the following Monday two acting magistrates attended, and finally committed him. Cooper has recently served a term in Leicester gaol for an assault upon a publican at Scalford; and he is one of those numerous “Rutland squatters” who have taken up their abode in the highways and by-ways with their horses, donkeys and dogs and share their neighbour’s property by right.

Feb 23rd
Disturbing a Congregation – On Saturday the 17th inst. Stephen Meadows, Wm Wigginton, John Watson and Chas. Thorpe were summoned before the magistrate at Oakham, for going into the parish church of Langham and wilfully disturbing the clergyman the parish clerk and the singers, by howling, imitating the crying of a child, whistling and making other noises. The evidence showed that about 15 persons went into the church for the express purpose of making these noises, and the four summoned were the worst behaved. The clergyman did not press the case; and the magistrate, after admonishing them, gave them a fortnight for paying the expenses, as they pleaded poverty. If the case had been pressed, each of the offenders must have found two sureties in £50, or gone to gaol till the quarter sessions. The Act has made the penalty in these cases £20, or imprisonment till it be paid. It is a pity the magistrates have no power to impose a smaller fine.

Mar 1st  Oakham - Amongst the 'Fashionable departures' from this town is that of the Rev. W.H. Hill one of the Curates of the Rev Heneage Finch. He disappeared with railway speed, to the dismay of sundry butchers, bakers, grocers and other tradesmen, as well as of some persons who had possessed a few spare pounds for loans. Mr Hill came to this part of the country from the remote county of Hereford. It is remarkable that in the useful annual publication called the 'Clergy list', he was last year called “the Rev W.H. Hall, Curate of Oakham”.

Aug  The churchwardens of Langham have commenced an active subscription in aid of funds for the purchasing of an organ for the church. Though as long as the pews of the church are suffered to remain a disgrace to the beautiful edifice it is not to be expected that the parishioners will care about the organ.

The Cottesmore hounds had a remarkably fine day's sport on Saturday last. The meet was at Langham and the first fox was found at Ranksborough after a smart burst he was killed at Little Dalby. The second fox was found at Cold Overton Park Wood, he went away at once for Lady Wood, then for Owston, to Launde, Robin-a-Tiptoe, touching on Tilton Wood on to Skeffington village, at the same top speed for Rolleston, away again for Noseley to Shankton Holt and the hounds ran into him at Ikston three gaters after a run of an hour and forty minutes which for good pace, good hunting and country (as was observed by two or three old sportsmen present) has not been equalled for some years. We understand that the present huntsman quite knows his business and gives much general satisfaction.

Leicester - the World's Industrial Exhibition; A crowded meeting on Tuesday was told of railway companies' provisions for travel & accommodation to London for the exhibition. Midland railway would run cheap trains - at a penny per mile - so fares from Leicester and back would be 8s 6d. The agent calculated that a working man could go, return and board and lodge in London for four or six days at 30s to £2 and he would add 10s for sight seeing too.

Small Allotment System in Rutland; The 22nd Annual examination of the small allotments upon the estates of the Earl of Gainsborough on the 29th & 30th ult. when prizes awarded by Mr Hawley of Oakham, Mr Burgess of Ridlington Park, Mr Rudkin of Langham Lodge, who kindly acted as judges. [NB locations mentioned were Uppingham, Ridlington, Whitwell, Exton, Bourne, Cottesmore but not Langham!].
The system of letting small allotments of land in Rutland was established by Richard Westbrook Baker Esq. of Cottesmore in 1830. “Each occupier has one rood and a half of land which is divided into three equal portions the cropping of which is explained in Rule 4” That the land be occupied in the following manner viz. one third (and no more) with potatoes, one third with cabbage peas beans onions carrots or any other green crop and the other third with wheat barley and any kind of grain “The rotation of cropping fixed upon divides the working operations and is found yearly to produce valuable commodities for the service of the family and keeps the land always in a proper state for a new tenant” Mr Rudkin has acted as judge in the years 1834, 1836, 1837, 1839 and 1845.

To the Editor of the Mercury.
Sir,—I am a kind of “Citizen of the World,” and feel almost as much interest in one place as another, and pretty much interest in all. I take the liberty, therefore, of asking whether or not the inhabitants of Langham take any interest in anything? I happened to be in this part of Rutland last Sunday, and, as I take an interest in all churches, visited the one at Langham. It has a beautiful exterior for an old parish church, but imagine my surprise when I entered and found water descending from the roof, and extending over five or six pews in length, then running a short distance, and lastly forming a body of water in the middle isle of the church. On making enquiries of those who are acquainted with the strange fact, I have been informed that it has been in this state during six weeks, and what is more strange, that the proper persons have not even attempted to remedy it, but suffer it to continue in this dilapidated condition. Nor is this all, for I have been informed also, that the church clock has not worked during six weeks, and all through the negligence of those whose business it is to see that the church and clock are kept in proper repair. I think a person in office ought to have “mens sana in corpore sana.” I enquired, at the commencement of my letter, if the inhabitants of Langham take any interest in anything? I may say I am glad to find that they are fully sensible of the unnecessary inconvenience to which they are exposed. I am, Sir, your’s obediently, A Traveller

Religious Intolerance - Last week the Rev H. Whitley, Curate of Kingston, refused to bury the corpse of a child, aged two years, named John Luntley, son of Mr. Luntley, High Street Hereford, because he had not been baptised. On the refusal of the Rev gentleman to read the service, the Rev G. Cozens, Baptist minister, who was present offered to give an address at the grave. Permission to do so was, as might be expected, refused by the Curate. “It does not matter” said Mr Cozens “I will stand outside the wall, and give an address”. Leaving ‘Consecrated ground’, he thus went out of the churchyard and, the coffin being placed on the wall, gave the address from an adjoining field. The coffin was then taken to the grave, and the father, with unfaltering voice, said “My dear boy, I commit thee to the ground in sure and certain hope of a resurrection to eternal life”. And so he may the rites of “Christian burial” being refused not with standing. But here the question naturally arises, is this the law of the Church on the point. In reply to a letter on this subject in a similar case the Archbishop of Canterbury writes :- the Curate of your parish is obliged to bury with the usual forms the corpse of a dissenter, provided the church service be not objected to. Again not long since proceedings were taken in the Court of Arches against the Rev H Henslow Perpetual Curate of the Parish of Wormgay Norfolk who refused to bury the corpse of Sarah Bowden a parishioner who had not been baptised in the Established Church and the judgement pronounced in this case by Sir Hubert Jenner Fust was that the rev defendant be suspended from the ministry for three months.

A portion of Prince Albert’s Own Leicestershire Cavalry and the Rutland Militia had a ‘field day’ in Exton Park on Weds last on which occasion the Earl of Gainsborough’s extensive grounds presented a very gay appearance. The cavalry were under the command of Viscount Campden and the militia of the Hon Hy. Noel. The day being extremely favourable, the park was visited by considerable numbers of persons from the surrounding district. During the afternoon the progress made in Military Tactics by the men was severely tested, and the manner in which they went through the various evolutions elicited the approval of the officers; and the spectators generally seemed to take great interest in the proceedings particularly when the cavalry and infantry engaged in mimic battles near a wood. The exercise terminated at 4 o’clock after which the cavalry proceeded to the village of Exton to partake of a dinner at the expense of Lord Campden. It would seem that several chargers which took part in the field practice had not seen much action because at the discharge of the firearms they escaped from their riders and made off to distant parts of the park. Several of the “regulars” on recruiting service appeared at the ground in the new military uniform.

Broomfield (Wesleyan) of Oakham and others. A second public meeting was held on Friday evening at which addresses were delivered by the Rev. J. Jenkinson (chairman), the Rev. J. Salisbury, the Rev. T.M. Thorpe, the Rev. J.T. Brown and Messrs. Islip and Haymes. A bazaar in aid of the building fund was open on Thursday and Friday and public tea provided on both those days. The services were held in a large tent erected near the chapel. They were all numerously attended and deeply interesting. To the credit of the voluntary principle, the total receipts exceeded £138 in addition to nearly £150 previously contributed.

Oakham County Court July 12th Before Sergeant Miller and a Jury.

Henry Hayes v John Henry Rudkin. - Plaintiff and defendant both reside in Langham, the former being also in the employ of Mr. Hauley, Merchant, of Oakham. The action was brought to recover damages for an assault committed on the 4th of April last when plaintiff had his leg broken from a fall caused by the defendant. Both parties are members of the Society of Nottingham Odd Fellows, held at the Noel Arms at Langham, of which society the plaintiff was and the defendant is secretary. The dispute arose upon the right of being admitted into the club room during “the making of a brother”; upon which occasion, for the purpose of expelling plaintiff, the defendant seized Hayes by the collar, threw him down, and thereby broke his leg. Apart from the serious result of the affair, much amusement was caused in court by the examination on the part of the defendant, of the “Royal Grand Imperial Highness, Father or Master” and other officials belonging to the society. After a Trial of three hours, the jury found a verdict for plaintiff, damages £20. Mr Atter appeared for the plaintiff and Mr Law for the defendant.

Richard Westbrook Baker in the chair the following were the lettings Stamford field Hambleton and Burley gates £326 being an advance over last year’s letting of £96; the Cottesmore and Greetham gates were let for £120 being an advance of £50. These advanced resources of £96 enabled the Commissioners to order that 644 tons of Mountsorrel Granite be provided and deposited in the several parishes according to a table prepared on or before Sept 30th. The early harvest will afford ample time for the carting of materials upon roads before they become softened with the later rains and thereby prevent what was too frequently seen in the winter, heavy material carted over and spoiling one part of a road in order to mend the other.

Death of Richard Westbrook Baker Esq. at his residence in Cottesmore on 30th Jan. For the lengthened period of 40 years this gentleman has been an occupier of land in the county of Rutland and during this period every solid improvement in agriculture has had his most earnest support and assistance. The system of small allotments for agricultural and other labouring poor has been rendered its greatest perfection in the county of Rutland where it was established 30 years ago by Mr. Baker. Descended from a family of considerable property in Newark in the 15c and about 1650 settled at Aylesbury, many became followers of Quaker (and imprisoned). William Baker MD, born 1721, married Miss Ann Leek whose son Richard, born 1762, was father of Richard Westbrook. Mr. Baker was Sheriff of Rutland in 1842.

Note on cost of Pauperism:

Increased cost compared to 1859 due to higher prices (though numbers reduced. E.g. wheat 45s 2½d per quarter in 1859, 55s 10d last year. Report: A handsome silver inkstand was last week presented to Mrs. D.G. Freer of Langham House who has kindly presided at the organ for several years past at the parish church. The testimonial was confessedly on the part of the parishioners only a slight acknowledgment of the services she has rendered the church and of the gratification she afforded by her admirable playing upon the instrument, but there was a consciousness also that it would be received by the lady herself, not so much for its intrinsic value as for the feelings which prompted its presentation; and in this view they were not mistaken. The real reason was to acknowledge a grateful appreciation of Mrs. Freer's voluntary services and to show the esteem in which she herself is personally held throughout the village. The cheerfulness with which all subscribed showed how thoroughly the object of the testimonial was concurred in, and in the way which it was received by the lady herself proved the kind of value she at once set upon it.

Rutland Assizes. Misdemeanour at Oakham Eliza Sharpe, 17, servant, pleaded guilty of concealing the birth of her male illegitimate child on the 24th of November, and was sentenced to three weeks in prison.
The facts of the case are these:- On the 28th of March last some men were employed by Mr Keal, surgeon, of Oakham to clean out a privy vault and while they were doing so they discovered the body of a child. The circumstance was reported to the police and suspicion falling on the servant girls in Mr Keal’s employ, they were examined but nothing could be ascertained, and both girls denied having been delivered of a child. The body was examined and it was believed the child had been in the vault for some time. From what afterwards transpired suspicion strongly attached to servant Sharpe, and she was further examined by Mr Turner, a surgeon of Oakham. The result was that he was quite confident that she had been the mother of a child. He told her of his opinion, and said “it was of no use her denying it, for it would answer no purpose, and would make the case no better for her”. The girl then began to cry, and from questions put by the surgeon she admitted having been delivered about Martlemass, and put the infant down the vault. She said she never heard it cry, nor saw it move; and no marks were found on the body to indicate that it had been murdered. In passing sentence the Judge strongly condemned the way in which the confession had been drawn from the girl, and said that a conversation so extorted was not according to the law; he hoped the hint would be a warning for the future to the gentleman, who, no doubt, was not acquainted with the law.

The morning was wet and damp and in consequence the noble Earl did not dine, but immediately after dinner his lordship came and took the chair. Being in his 81st year he well deserved it. At Langham on Friday last E. G. Baker Esq. gave a harvest festival to which all his employees (numbering 52) and several of the oldest inhabitants were invited, all of whom were regaled with a sumptuous repast of roast beef and plum pudding moistened with a copious supply of “nut brown ale” and other more costly beverages. Mr. Baker addressed his guests at some length, in very appropriate terms, on the blessings bestowed by Divine Providence in the late beautiful harvest, on the blessings of peace under a good Government, the duty of employers and the employed, and on other topics. A very happy evening was spent by all. The interesting proceedings were brought to a close by all joining in singing the national anthem.

The Christmas Bounty of the Earl of Gainsboro’ :- His Lordship with the usual nobleness of character, which is beyond all praise, caused to be distributed by Mr Walton to the poor people and tradesmen of Exton on Christmas eve the second prize cow shown at Oakham cattle exhibition in class three and weighing 100 stones, a prize Scotch bullock of 50 st, 60 st of fine wheat flour, 300 lbs of plums and 100 gallons of the best ale from his Lordship’s cellars. It was the noble Earl’s wish that every poor person in Exton should have a good dinner of roast beef and plum pudding, the tradesmen had beef only. Lady Gainsboro’ likewise gave away to every necessitous person blankets, bedding and clothing and in the winter months throughout the year to all the villagers soup twice a week. The same noble benefactress had distributed to the poor persons and widows of Langham, to the number of 42, a prime piece of beef and 3cwt of best hard coal. Other members of that good house gave the poor money, so that in every respect to the wants of this life they might enjoy the festive season.

Jul 12th  Rutland Assizes. Misdemeanour at Oakham - Eliza Sharpe, 17, servant, pleaded guilty of concealing the birth of her male illegitimate child on the 24th of November, and was sentenced to three weeks in prison.

The facts of the case are these:- On the 28th of March last some men were employed by Mr Keal, surgeon, of Oakham to clean out a privy vault and while they were doing so they discovered the body of a child. The circumstance was reported to the police and suspicion falling on the servant girls in Mr Keal’s employ, they were examined but nothing could be ascertained, and both girls denied having been delivered of a child. The body was examined and it was believed the child had been in the vault for some time. From what afterwards transpired suspicion strongly attached to servant Sharpe, and she was further examined by Mr Turner, a surgeon of Oakham. The result was that he was quite confident that she had been the mother of a child. He told her of his opinion, and said “it was of no use her denying it, for it would answer no purpose, and would make the case no better for her”.

The girl then began to cry, and from questions put by the surgeon she admitted having been delivered about Martlemass, and put the infant down the vault. She said she never heard it cry, nor saw it move; and no marks were found on the body to indicate that it had been murdered. In passing sentence the Judge strongly condemned the way in which the confession had been drawn from the girl, and said that a conversation so extorted was not according to the law; he hoped the hint would be a warning for the future to the gentleman, who, no doubt, was not acquainted with the law.
Aug 15th 1862  Died at Langham on the 9th inst., of phthisis, Sarah, widow of Wm. Roe, cottager, Age 51.

On Thursday the 7th the Earl of Gainsborough entertained his tenants, numbering 300 on the Rutland, Leicester and Nottingham Estates, to a dinner at Exton. The repast was a most sumptuous one and consisted of fish, venison, roast beef, lamb, veal and ham, chicken and tongue, duck, etc.; in fact all the delicacies of the season. The wines were excellent. The morning was wet and damp and in consequence the noble Earl did not dine, but immediately after dinner his lordship came and took the chair. Being in his 81st year he well deserved it... vice-presidents were Mr W.H. Baker of Cottesmore, Mr Wortley of Ridlington and Mr J. Swingler of Langham.

Feb  Near the top of Ranksborough Hill Langham in a close occupied by Mr Leadenham, the fragments of a bronze statuette apparently that of a Roman warrior or gladiator twenty inches in height was found. The head body and one foot only are perfect and are of very beautiful workmanship and in excellent preservation.

Cricket matches and foot races took place on Monday and the band brayed hideously at intervals. The village church was as usual on Feast Sunday strewn with hay.

Rutland Assizes. Misdemeanour at Oakham - Eliza Sharpe, 17, servant, pleaded guilty of concealing the birth of her male illegitimate child on the 24th of November, and was sentenced to three weeks in prison.

The facts of the case are these:- On the 28th of March last some men were employed by Mr Keal, surgeon, of Oakham to clean out a privy vault and while they were doing so they discovered the body of a child. The circumstance was reported to the police and suspicion falling on the servant girls in Mr Keal’s employ, they were examined but nothing could be ascertained, and both girls denied having been delivered of a child. The body was examined and it was believed the child had been in the vault for some time. From what afterwards transpired suspicion strongly attached to servant Sharpe, and she was further examined by Mr Turner, a surgeon of Oakham. The result was that he was quite confident that she had been the mother of a child. He told her of his opinion, and said “it was of no use her denying it, for it would answer no purpose, and would make the case no better for her”.

Jul 12th

The girl then began to cry, and from questions put by the surgeon she admitted having been delivered about Martlemass, and put the infant down the vault. She said she never heard it cry, nor saw it move; and no marks were found on the body to indicate that it had been murdered. In passing sentence the Judge strongly condemned the way in which the confession had been drawn from the girl, and said that a conversation so extorted was not according to the law; he hoped the hint would be a warning for the future to the gentleman, who, no doubt, was not acquainted with the law.

Session Reports Rutland - Oakham Jan 4th Before KW Conant (Chairman), W Wing, GCJ Orme, R Tryan and J Hunt Esqs. and the Hon. WC Evans-Freke. The Court was at 10 o'clock but owing to the want of a Magistrate the business was not commenced until shortly before 11am.

William Hutchins alias William Hill, 32, painter, was indicted for stealing a mare, the property of Harriet Hayes at Langham, on the 23rd of September. The mare was missed from a field near Langham, and whilst inquiries were being made after it, information was received by Chief Constable Keep at Oakham, that two men had been apprehended with a mare at Melton that morning with a mare in their possession which it was believed they had stolen. Mr Freckingham accompanied Mr Keep to Melton and identified the mare as that of Mrs Hayes which had been missed from the field. It was minus its tail. The two men with the mare were there-upon handed over to them, and the men were subsequently tried for stealing the animal, convicted and sentenced to imprisonment.

The prisoner, who it was learnt was also concerned in the robbery made his escape at the time, and was not apprehended until November last, when he was taken into custody at Stony Stratford, and on the 20th handed over to Chief Constable Keep. Whilst in custody he admitted that through want he had been induced to join the other men in stealing the mare, and added that as they were entering Melton with the animal he saw a policeman coming towards them and made off. He now denied having taken part in stealing the mare, but did not deny being with the two men who had been convicted of the offence. Prisoner was found guilty, and sentenced to two years hard labour, the CHAIRMAN remarking that horse stealing was a very serious offence and required severe punishment.

Oct 24th  Oakham Rutland At this meeting of the Rutland Sanitary Authority the following is part of report involving sewers read by Dr Moore. - I also visited Langham and inspected the sewage fallout, and I am of opinion that it creates a nuisance injurious to health. It is also contrary to the Act to pollute a water course. Mr Chapman assured me that beasts and sheep which drank water from the brook below the outfall suffered from scour, and that he had lost two beasts from this cause. Several people complained of the smell. I am therefore of opinion that some steps should be taken to purify the sewage before discharging it into the brook. The chief amount comes from the Brewery, but a considerable amount is also contributed by the village. After hearing the report it was resolved that the parish officers be required to clean out Langham brook within seven days or in default the work will be carried out by the Sanitary Authority and the cost charged to the parish.

Oakham Railway Accident - What is known as the “John Noble” night express from Bradford and Leeds to London on Saturday met with an extraordinary accident on the Midland railway near Ashwell. It seems that a wagon, laden with hay, was being taken across Bursnell’s crossing when the wagon ran against a lamp post and stood fast on the line. It was only necessary to cut a stout rope to set the wagon free and clear the line but the waggoner refused to allow this to be done and prevented the crossing keeper using his knife to cut the rope. While the dispute was going on the express was heard approaching. The gatekeeper ran as fast as he could to stop the express by waving his red signal, but the driver failed to see it, the train dashed into the wagon at full speed, the wagon was broken into splinters and the great momentum fortunately threw the debris clear of the line. The engine was considerably damaged but beyond being alarmed and shaken the passengers were uninjured.

‘Extraordinary Suicide’ — Inquest at Black Horse before W Keal Esq, coroner on 17th inst on the body of Francis Hubbard Smith, dealer, 37 yrs husband of Sarah Allen Smith who identified the body. Mr Sewell and Henry Edgson found the body at 5.30am face down and with clenched hands on the Melton Road and sent for the constable who found someone had been lying in a nearby haystack and an empty bottle with blue sediment was also found. A pocket book found on the deceased contained a letter saying why he had taken his life. Mr Papillon, surgeon said the contracted muscles indicated strychnine poisoning. Jury returned verdict of suicide during temporary insanity.

Written:—
I hope them that find me will read this at the inquest that will be held over my body. That I have taken every penny back that I borrowed from Stephen Poching and Thomas Vorle, residing at Leicester; and I further pray that these two men carry me to the grave, and if they refuse they both be flogged until they do. Oh, my poor head! And after my funeral these two men be hung and their bodies burnt. I pray if they try to obtain my insurance money from my four boys—my mind, oh, it is gone. I hope no one will follow me to the grave, and that I be buried in a corner to myself; and that no service be read over me – only for them to pray for the Lord to have mercy upon my soul. And I pray that the coroner send this to those two men for a warning for them not to send four fatherless boys to the grave. And I also pray no one shall stand or stamp on my coffin.

Oakham Police - Serious assault case - Frank Fisher, labourer, Langham, was charged with assaulting on the highway at Langham, Mrs Ninis, on Dec 18th. Complainant said on the 15th Dec she lost a canary and having heard that Fisher had found it she went to his house for it and his wife let her have the bird. On her way home she met the accused, who wanted the bird back again, saying it was his bird. She refused to let him have it, when he caught hold of her arm and tried to take it from her. He kicked at her and refuse to let her go.
H. E. Wells , labourer, said on the evening of the above day he was in his house, and hearing someone scream he went out to see what was the matter. He found the accused had hold of the complainant and would not let her go and witness took hold of defendant by the throat and got him away.
Rev. R. Ninis said about 7.40 he was in the schoolroom at Langham when his wife came into the room. Defendant was holding his wife by the arm. He pushed the man off her and threatened to knock him down if he did not let her alone.
Defendant said he caught the bird in a wild state and took it home and wished to keep it until the rightful owner turned up and he told his wife to detain the bird until they had seen him. It was not his intention to assault Mrs Ninis and he was very sorry it had happened.
The Bench considered it a most severe and disgraceful assault and sentenced Fisher to six weeks hard labour. Fisher was further charged with drunken and disorderly behaviour in the same evening on the highway at Langham and was sentenced to a further term of seven days hard labour.
